

TASK FORCE SAILS OFF NORTH KOREA

Warrants Authorized By Taylor

Outgrowth Of Picketing At BH Jr. High

Benton Harbor Prosecutor Ronald J. Taylor said this morning he has authorized three warrants for the arrest of Maurice Bishop, on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Bishop, leader of pickets at Benton Harbor junior high, is accused of enticing students to skip school. He was named in complaints signed by Charles Gray, coordinator of student affairs at the junior high.

Taylor said he expected the warrants to be issued by a judge later this morning.

Negro pickets appeared at junior high four days during the past two weeks protesting the suspension of a student and demanding the hiring of a black principal.

PICKETS WARNED

The pickets were warned by Dr. Mark E. Lewis, superintendent, that legal action would be taken against anyone influencing students to stay out of school.

Classes continued during the picketing in what school authorities said was a calm atmosphere inside the school. However, absenteeism was somewhat higher than usual.

Bishop, head of a local unit of the Southern Christian Leadership conference, was arrested last summer during a civil disturbance in Benton Harbor. He was charged as a disorderly person and resisting arrest. The cases are still pending in court.

State Democrat Party Leader Is BHHS Grad

The new deputy chairman of the Michigan Democratic party is no stranger to Benton Harbor.

Malcolm Gray Dade, Jr., spent his high school years in the city and graduated on June 7, 1947. He was class speaker at graduation exercises.

During his high school days, he was a member of the debating team and took part in a campaign to raise funds for Mercy hospital.

Dade's mother, Mrs. Esther Dade Clay, 243 Jefferson court, Benton Harbor, is a first grade teacher at Morton school.

The new deputy chairman was appointed to his position Thursday by party chairman James McNeely.

In his new office, he will be the principal administrative officer and be responsible primarily for the day-to-day operation in the Detroit area.

"I've been back to visit since graduating," said Dade when he was contacted in the party's office in Lansing. "I'll always remember Benton Harbor."

Dade, 37, his wife, Kitty and their three children—Sharon, Karen and Malcolm Jr., live in Detroit. He worked for the city of Detroit for 12 years before joining the central Democratic organization.

He is a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), the International Afro-American Museum, Inc., the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, the Trade Union Leadership Council and the board of directors of the Riverside Civic Fund.

A native of New Bedford,

Mass., Dade, with the exception of his four years in Benton Harbor and the time he spent in the Air Force, has lived in Detroit since 1936. He entered the Air Force in January, 1952 and served to 1955.

He is a graduate of Wayne State university with a degree in political science and he has done graduate work in the School of Social Work at Wayne State.

GAVE TIP TO POLICE

Suspended Teacher Will Be Reinstated

HIGHLAND PARK (AP)—Suspended Highland Park teacher Marilyn Mareks will go back to her classroom Monday and will be paid for the week of school she missed under terms of an agreement reached Friday.

Miss Mareks, 33, was suspended from the suburban Detroit school system April 10 after she told Detroit police a pupil indicated she had information on the shooting March 29 of Patrolman Michael Czapski near New Bethel Baptist Church.

The agreement was reached after a meeting between Miss Mareks, Supt. Paul H. Emerich and two lawyers.

Police, after questioning the student, said she had not witnessed the shooting and had no information on it. Emerich would not comment on the meeting. He said further details would be given in a statement to be made Monday.

Navy Will Guard Spy Flights

Nixon Orders Surveillance To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Potent U.S. naval forces, including the battleship New Jersey and possibly a pair of aircraft carriers, were reported steaming to new positions today to provide protection for American intelligence missions off North Korea.

The Pentagon announced redeployment of extensive forces Friday shortly after President Nixon ordered resumption of reconnaissance flights with the promise they will cease to be "fair game" for North Korean jets.

Flights off the North Korean coast were halted Tuesday after an EC121 reconnaissance plane with 31 men aboard apparently was shot down. Only two bodies have been found in the Sea of Japan where the craft fell.

Redeployment of the naval forces was viewed as a protective step rather than a threat of retaliation against North Korea. The New Jersey, which had been scheduled to arrive in Long Beach, Calif., today after duty off Vietnam, was ordered to turn around and return to the Western Pacific. The 16-inch guns on the world's only active battleship had been used to shell targets up to 20 miles inland in Vietnam.

While no announcement was made of the strategy to be used in providing protection for the reconnaissance planes, indications were fighters would be stationed where they could come to the swift rescue of any threatened U.S. aircraft. Fighters would be kept in the air during intelligence missions, but not flying wing-to-wing with the reconnaissance aircraft.

POSITIONS SECRET

Except for the New Jersey, the Pentagon did not say what ships were involved and the announcement stopped short of specifying the new positions actually were in the Sea of Japan. A Defense Department spokesman said only the redeployment involved "a number of different types of vessels."

Military men indicated Friday that carrier-based fighters probably would be used to help provide protection the slow-moving reconnaissance planes have not had in the past.

One carrier believed on the way to the Sea of Japan is the USS Kittyhawk which carries 90 warplanes. The Kittyhawk left Hong Kong with two destroyers earlier this week without any announcement of its destination. There was no identification of a possible second carrier.

Three U.S. destroyers and combat patrol aircraft already are operating off the North Korean coast where they are searching for the missing plane and crewmen.

Another destroyer, the USS Tucker, was ordered back to Sasebo, Japan, with items of aircraft debris which had been found by search vessels.

In ordering resumption of the intelligence flights, Nixon pronounced them vital to the security of U.S. troops stationed in

College Leaders Locked In

By Associated Press

Demonstrating students kept 25 trustees locked in a conference room at Atlanta University Center today but protests were ended or suspended at several other major campuses.

Harvard students voted to suspend their strike for seven days after the university agreed to reduce the status of the Reserve Officers Training Corp to an extracurricular activity. Stanford University protesters ended a nine-day sit-in at an electronics lab.

A new protest by a breakaway group of students for a Democratic Society at Columbia University fizzled when it failed to get any widespread support. The dissidents at Atlanta University Center, a six-college complex, were demanding that the schools be renamed for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and that white trustees resign.

PRESIDENT LOCKED IN

One of those locked in was Dr. Hugh M. Gloster, president of Morehouse College, King's alma mater and part of the complex. He said he would resign rather than accede to the demands under duress.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., a Morehouse trustee, walked out of the room Friday, declaring his family wanted no part of the tactics protesters were using in seeking to honor his slain son.

The protesters had blocked the trustees briefly Thursday then released them when a meeting was set for Friday. About 100 students blocked the officials Friday morning. They chained and locked the doors from the inside.

Dr. Thomas D. Jarrett, president of Atlanta University, told school officials not to send security guards or city police.

In Cambridge, Mass., a mass meeting of 3,500 Harvard students voted 2-1 to suspend the eight-day strike touched off by the arrest of 200 sit-ins at the administration building.

However, SDS members and about 150 black students seeking a large voice in setting up a black studies program, said they would continue the class

Americans Questioned In London

LONDON (AP) — An American described as an amiable "country club" type in his 50s with a slight East European accent was being interrogated with his wife Friday night by a Scotland Yard counter-espionage squad.

No charges were filed against the couple and authorities would not disclose their identities or any details of the case.

Senior officials of the U.S. Embassy went to Scotland Yard for discussions with the detectives. British police said they checked with the U.S. Bureau of Investigation before the raid.

More than 50 detectives headed by Scotland Yard Commander Ferguson Smith closed in on the lavish home in the stockbroker belt of London's southern suburbs where the couple lived with their three children.

RATHER QUIT THAN SWITCH: Dr. Hugh M. Gloster, left, stands at a third-floor window of the Morehouse College administration building Friday after announcing that he would resign rather than be forced into renaming Atlanta University Center after the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Gloster is one of several university trustees being held prisoner by rebellious students demanding that the predominantly Negro complex be named after the slain civil rights leader. Michigan Breaks With A Hard Line Defense On Pesticides

The Michigan Agricultural Commission moved one step off center this week in the controversy between commercial farmers and conservationists on chemical control of insects.

MAC voted to delicense the sale of DDT for all purposes. Last year the commission denied registration of the compound for mosquito control.

Under state law the commission has the authority to license or to deny the sale of certain compounds for any or all purposes.

An order denying a license is

Trade Obstacles

Everyone seems to be in favor of more liberal foreign trade policies except when they affect his special interest. The list of such specialties has grown to include steel, textiles, tomato paste, chickens, meat, fats and oils.

Secretary of Commerce Stan and Carl J. Gilbert, newly appointed as President Nixon's special representative for trade negotiations, made a flying visit to Europe in an effort to get the trend toward freer trade moving again.

Since agreement was reached two years ago in negotiations to cut tariffs on thousands of items imported by the participating nations, the momentum of the effort to expand world trade by easing restrictions has faded.

Although tariff cuts have been made, other barriers to the movement of goods have sprung up. These include border taxes, countervailing duties, curbs on capital flows and negotiated or coerced restrictions on exports.

It was these nontariff obstacles that Mr. Stans, Mr. Gilbert and their panel of advisers sought to cut down through discussions with officials of European trading powers.

In the background of the discussions was lurking the knowledge, on the part of both sides, that the U.S. surplus in merchandise trade, which stood as recently as 1964 at $6.6 billion, fell last year to less than $100 million, mainly because inflation and high prices in the U.S. drew in a record amount of foreign goods.

The U.S. increased its exports by 9.5 percent, to $33.4 billion, last year but imports, surged more dramatically, climbing 23 percent to $33.3 billion.

That sharp advance in the import total and its significance for the U.S. balance of payments problem are being used as ammunition in campaigns to obtain import quotas safeguarding products made in this country. But quotas invite retaliatory measures.

The path to expanded world trade will not be improved by creating an obstacle course. The solution to improving this country's balance of trade must be found in slowing down the price spiral at home and making U.S. products more competitive in world markets.

The magic formula to accomplish this has not been announced.

The Himalayan kingdom of Mustang contends with more than its share of demons, the National Geographic Society says. Some 416 evil spirits of land, sky, fire, and water plague the Lo-bas, as the people call themselves.

BORN TODAY

Glenn T. Seaborg is known vaguely by some persons as the chairman of the Atomic energy Commission. Others have called him a modern version of the many-sided Renaissance man as teacher, scientist and administrator.

He was born in the mining town of Ishpeming, Mich., in 1912. He attended the local schools and showed no particular proficiency until Dwight Logan Reid, an enthusiastic science teacher at the high school, inspired him with an interest in chemistry and physics. Seaborg graduated first in his class and the valedictorian.

Encouraged by his professors at UCLA, Seaborg decided during his senior year to pursue a career in nuclear chemistry. After taking his BA degree in 1934, he transferred to the University of California's Berkeley campus. In 1937 he earned his Ph.D. and in 1939 was appointed an instructor in the college of chemistry.

His major contribution to science came in 1940 when he announced the discovery of a new element, plutonium. Before his experiments, chemists thought that uranium was the heaviest element.

Seaborg's discovery of the fissionable isotope of uranium further added to the nuclear fuel supply. These accomplishments brought Seaborg fame, established his reputation as a top-ranking scientist and made his laboratory the unquestioned leader in the research into heaviest element.

During World War II, he and his staff worked on the Manhattan Project at the University of Chicago and the effort culminated in the dropping of the atomic bomb in August, 1945.

In 1961, President Kennedy called him to head the Atomic Energy Commission and he became the first scientist to do so.

Others born today include Jayne Mansfield and Hugh O'Brian. Born on April 20 were Harold Lloyd, Lionel Hampton, Adolf Hitler and Bruce Cabot.

..And Speaking Of Your Health

In a recent letter from Mrs. J. R. from Arizona, she asks: "Are transplants the only kind of surgery that can be performed for hearts that are inadequate because of repeated attacks?" M. J. R. continues: "My husband is not sick enough for a heart transplant and yet is not able to perform a full day's activities because of the weakness of his heart."

I am certain readers will be interested to know that there are a great many operations that are being tried in an effort to bring more blood to the heart muscle. This need is the basis for many of the complaints related to problems of the heart.

When the blood supply becomes inadequate in the coronary arteries which bring blood and oxygen to the heart muscle, it is not able to pump the vital blood throughout the body.

The inadequacy of the blood supply to the heart is probably one of the most glaring defects in the body that is made up of so many unbelievable safety measures.

There is a large artery known as the internal mammary artery which has been used by surgeons to be implanted directly into the heart muscle to make up for its own poor blood supply. In many instances this technique has been remarkably successful in restoring chronic heart invalids to complete productivity.

Doctor George E. Green at New York University has modified this operation and is now doing a complicated hook-up with one of the coronary arteries and bringing enough blood to the heart to relieve the painful anginal spasms that so often make partial invalids out of so many people with coronary artery disease. Before any surgery is attempted extensive studies are performed to evaluate each individual's need. Each day seems to bring more and more hope that such problems may be alleviated by surgery.

It once was said by a philosopher that anything that man can conceive of will eventually be accomplished. It was only a few years ago that the man-on-the-moon landing was totally preposterous. Now it is almost a reality. So it is with transplants of hearts, livers, and perhaps soon, brains and spinal cords. These unbelievable transplants are now being tried in experimental animals and show promise that eventually they can be used in humans.

Now physicians, surgeons, and engineers have combined their wisdom in the creation of a new type of artificial lung which can be used to keep alive patients who might otherwise have succumbed to overwhelming diseases of the lung. Emphysema, one of the dread complications of cigarette smoking, infection and air pollution may be high on the list to be kept in control by this new device.

Doctor Richard D. Stewart of the Marquette University School of Medicine, and his co-worker, Dr. E.D. Baratta, believe that their newly created lung device may soon be used everywhere.

Opening lead - six of hearts. The most humdrum hands occasionally become spectacular as play proceeds and the original setting changes form.

For example, take this deal where West missed an opportunity to defeat declarer at six spades. Confident of stopping the slam with his two probable trump tricks, West led a heart at trick one.

Declarer won in dummy and correctly decided not to pin all his hopes on cashing the A-K of trumps and finding a normal 3-2 spade division.

Instead, he led a diamond to the queen and returned a low spade towards dummy's jack. This method of play was intended to take care of not only a 3-2 trump division but also the possibility that West had four to the queen.

West went up with the queen and led another heart, again won by declarer in dummy. Declarer then cashed the jack of spades, crossed to his hand with a club, drew West's 10-9 of trumps with the A-K, and easily made the rest by discarding his club loser on one of dummy's high diamonds.

However, South could not have made the slam against perfect defense. His decision to guard against a possible 4-1 trump break was certainly well reasoned and proper, and would ordinarily have been successful, but it would have failed in this case had West come through with a most unusual play at trick four after winning South's low trump lead with the queen. All that West had to do at this point was return the king of clubs - and South would have found it impossible to make the slam.

He would win the club with the ace and lead a trump to the jack, but he would then find himself locked in dummy and unable to get out without yielding a second trump trick to West.

BH Native Saving Lives In Vietnam

A native Benton Harborite is helping people and making friends for the U.S. in far off South Vietnam. He is Richard B. Small, M.D., son of Atty. and Mrs. Robert Small, 823 LaVette street, Benton Harbor.

CAPT. RICHARD SMALL

Now a captain in the U.S. Army, Dr. Small is stationed at Bien Hoa near Saigon. One instance of his care of one of the smaller Vietnamese occasioned a feature article and picture in a recent issue of "Stars and Stripes," Pacific edition.

Dr. Small is a 1958 graduate of Benton Harbor high school and received his medical degree from the University of Michigan in 1967. He has been in the Army since last October. He is married and has two children. Here is the "Stars and Stripes" account of how Captain Small helped save the life of a Vietnamese girl, aged 4:

CAMP RED BALL (IO)—The Brigade's Medcap was in progress—a doctor was sweating in the hot November sun. One of the Brigade's interpreters brought his four year old niece to be seen by CPT Richard Small. The young girl was enemic and coughing. CPT Small examined her and found that her uncle's concern for her health was indeed justified. Her body was receiving only about half its needed blood supply and, consequently, the heart had to work twice as hard. The prognosis was serious. If something wasn't done, Chou Thieu Thum would be dead within a year.

The little girl was given medication from mid-November to mid-January. In the interim CPT Small consulted with CPT Prentiss Smith, the heart specialist at III Field Hospital. The doctors agreed that surgery was necessary if Chou's life was to be saved.

On January 15th the girl was admitted to III Field Hospital and two days later CPT Small assisted CPT Smith in the delicate heart operation.

Governor Signs Bill On Friday

Out-County Bench Can Now Be In Twin City Limits

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

The chairman of the Berrien supervisors' administration committee indicated his committee will act as rapidly as possible to find a new home for the Fifth district court.

But he's not at all certain where they can go.

Governor William Milliken today signed a bill empowering out-county district courts to sit in the courthouse of their county.

Supervisor Otto Grau, administration chairman, said the two courtrooms for the northern part of Berrien county, located in Benton and St. Joseph townships, have to be relocated from their present sites.

NO SPACE AVAILABLE

Although legally cleared now to go into the courthouse, Grau added he does not know if the courtrooms for criminal hearings can be moved there.

"The only place we could put it in the courthouse would be on the fourth floor—and that isn't built yet," he remarked wryly.

Grau said the temporary courtrooms established in the Benton township municipal building and in the St. Joseph township fire station are too small for the amount of business pouring through the district court. Further, the two townships have asked the county to move the courts out because the activity attending the courts has interfered with the townships' use of their buildings.

He said the best location for the courtroom would be in the courthouse and that such a move will get first consideration.

FORCED TO MOVE

The Fifth district maintains an administrative office and hearing room for traffic and civil cases in the courthouse already. But it was forced to move all of its criminal matters out of the courthouse and inside the district's boundaries when the Berrien circuit judges ruled it could not hear criminal matters outside its boundaries.

The bill signed yesterday by the governor was designed to clarify the right of some 10 such out-county district courts in Michigan to sit in the courthouse outside their boundaries.

BH High Receives 'Grade A'

Benton Harbor senior high school has received a "clean bill of health" for curriculum and personnel from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools.

The notice from the North Central association means that Benton Harbor high continues as an accredited school. Principal Lionel J. Stacey said the North Central report found fault with the building, particularly a lack of classroom versatility. The school has only one room where 75 students can be seated except for the auditorium.

There also were other criticisms of the building which was visited by a North Central team last year before the district spent $100,000 for repairs and new lighting in the old south wing.

Stacey said the report on the academic aspects is very pleasing because it indicates a sound program.

Wife Held In Slashing

Willie Evertt, 70, Townline road, Sodus township, was treated for a severe gash of the throat at Mercy hospital last night and released following a fracas at his home.

Berrien county sheriff's officers charged Evertt's wife, Lillie Mae, 69, with assault with a deadly weapon. She was arrested at the home located near Burkett street.

According to Deputy Fred Reeves, 28 stitches were required to close the throat wound. He said a broken whisky bottle apparently caused the gash.

A high school band director like Bernie Kuschel does it by putting his product on display before elementary school students. Thousands of tots in the Benton Harbor school district hear the sounds of a big band when Kuschel's musicians present concerts at elementary schools.

Some of the youngsters eventually will play in the Benton Harbor marching and symphony bands long recognized for excellence throughout the midwest.

Even if they don't make the first team, Kuschel and classroom teachers believe the concerts develop ears for good music.

GREAT RESPONSE

"The response has been marvelous," said Kuschel. "Those kids sit on the edge of their chairs."

Concerts this year were booked at Calvin Britain, Henry C. Morton, Sterne Brunson and Bard. The schedule alternates so that over two years all elementary students in the district are exposed to a big band.

Kuschel narrates the concerts, introducing students to instruments and music. Individual band members play short tunes distinctive of their instruments so that students can hear how different horns blend into a band.

The concert numbers are selected with a young audience in mind. "Skiers Waltz" from Cinerama Holiday is very descriptive

He's Victim, Not Bandit

One paragraph of a Friday armed robbery trial story in this newspaper erroneously identified the robbery victim Lee Nolen, as a Michigan prison inmate. The inmate was Robert Lee Sharp, 22, who was convicted of robbing Nolen in a Berrien circuit court trial Friday.

Model Cities Posts Will Be Filled

It's First Step In 10 Month Planning Stage

Chairmen of eight committees created by the Citizens Steering Council (CSC) of the Model Cities program were aiming for an April 24 deadline to complete committee memberships.

The committees were designated and chairmen appointed April 10. Members are being selected from the 19-member steering council.

LEADERS NAMED

Chairmen and the committees are the Rev. Silas Legg, employment and income; Mrs. Esther V. Kizer, education; the Rev. Jake Webb, housing; Carroll Johnson, physical environment and transportation; Miss Gwendolyn Baird, crime and delinquency; Mrs. Annabelle Bankston, social services and health; Mrs. Myra Marie Nelson, recreation and cultural services; and Mrs. Lula Lee, attitudes, citizen participation and publicity.

The committees will delve into their specific areas to gather information on existing conditions, problems and causes. They will also develop recommended plans for correcting or improving conditions in the Benton Harbor-Benton township project area of 1,236 acres.

Under the program's work plan, the data gathering phase is expected to take about six months. Once completed, the development of specific plans would involve another four months.

MONTHLY REPORTS

Program administrator Benjamin Davis said under federal guidelines, monthly status reports are to be submitted to the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) office in Chicago. HUD is financing the program primarily.

A schedule calls for the program's general five-year plan, including proposals as well as cost estimates, to be submitted to HUD once the 10-month planning phase is over. The detailed one-year plan and action program for carrying it out are to follow.

BH Faculty To Screen Candidates

Benton Harbor high school teachers have elected veteran faculty members Don Farnum and Walter (Les) Rock as representatives on a committee that will screen candidates for the principalship.

Other committee members are John Cooper, Hull school principal; Robert Payne, assistant superintendent for personnel; and Raymond Sreboth, assistant superintendent for business affairs.

The committee will select three applicants for recommendation to the Superintendent Mark E. Lewis who will present one to the board of education for approval.

Principal Lionel J. Stacey's resignation is effective June 30 when he will go to Lakeshore as superintendent.

Train, Car Crash Kills 2 Hoosiers

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. — Two Michigan City, Ind., residents were killed Friday evening when their auto ran into the side of a Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train here, according to Michigan City police.

Officers said the train, bound from Chicago to Grand Rapids, was delayed for about 45 minutes during an investigation of the crash. The train stops in the Twin Cities.

Police identified the victims as O.Z. Garner, 40, the driver, and his passenger, Ellen May Frazier, 22, both of Michigan City. Police said the auto, apparently ran into the side of the train about 6:35 p.m. at the Hitchcock street crossing here. Both victims were pronounced dead at the scene, police said.

YOUTH CORPSMEN'S HEALTH IS BELOW PAR

Governor Warns
Against FanaticismYouthful Dissent Praised
In Kalamazoo Talk

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Gov. William Milliken today praised youth's dissent from "the sham of our society" but warned against fanatic attempts that sacrifice principle for power.

"Freedom to dissent cannot survive in any contest — academic or otherwise — if a reasonable majority falls under the tyranny of an unreasonable minority," the governor said.

Milliken's remarks were included in a speech prepared for delivery at Western Michigan University commencement exercises.

Young people today have adopted equality and justice as their goals and brotherhood as their way of life, the governor said. "In this respect," he encouraged to pursue these goals.

But, he said, "the idealism of some young radicals, their impatience to right society's wrongs, their righteous indignation over poverty, racism and inequality, is often marred by a fanaticism and rigidity that violates the whole concept of freedom."

Freedom is foremost among principles to pursue, Milliken said, "the freedom to dissent... not only from the majority view but to dissent from the minority view as well."

"History is replete with bright new schemes that promised national and international salvation, if only these schemes would be universally embraced and rigidly executed," he said.

"Those schemes, often imposed by a fanatic minority upon a passive majority, have led to war, to totalitarianism and to disaster."

"No adequate substitute has yet been found for the rule of the majority," Milliken added.

The governor told graduates they "face more desperately pressing problems than any generation before you: The continuing threat of nuclear war—a threat guaranteed by the arms race, the shame of our ghettos, the pollution of our air and water, the ruin of our natural resources and, above all, the continuing fires of racial hatred."

"As usual," he said, "we hand you the torch, and as usual, you get burned when you take it."

Milliken said he hoped young people would be a "dissenting generation."

"I hope you will dissent from the past because the past has not been very satisfactory," he said.

"But I hope you will never dissent from the enduring principles that have withstood the test of history — honesty with yourself and others, toleration for the ideas of others, freedom for others to pursue their destinies."

Legislator To Discuss
School Taxation Plan

"The Fair - Share Program" for financing public schools in Michigan will be described at a meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in Benton Harbor high school.

Speaker will be Rep. Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti) who proposes a Constitutional amendment eliminating all school property taxes for operational purposes.

The personal and corporate state income taxes would be increased to make up the difference.

MSU Dean
Freed For
U.S. Post

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University trustees have accepted the resignation of Dean Thomas K. Cowden, recently named assistant U.S. secretary of Agriculture.

Cowden will retain his position as professor but will step down as dean of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources May 15.

Provost Howard Neville will serve as acting dean until a successor is named.

The 60-year-old Cowden has been dean since 1954, when he took over the post from Clifford Hardin, now agriculture secretary in the Nixon Administration.

In other action Friday, the MSU board accepted gifts and grants totaling more than $3.97 million, including $325,903 for Oakland University.

The board named Dr. Robert L. Blomstrom, professor of hotel management, to direct the School of Hotel, Restaurant and Institutional Management and Dr. James H. Stapleton, associate professor of statistics, chairman of the Department of Statistics and Probability.

Physical
Exams Find
Defects

But No Money
Is Available
To Correct Them

By RAY SMLETANKA
Staff Writer

More than half the members of the Neighborhood Youth Corps tested so far in Berrien county have been found to have physical defects, according to figures released by Robert Rumney, local NYC director.

Rumney said that so far 45 of the approximately 100 area members of the corps have been given physicals and that 29 have been found below par.

He indicated that under a federal grant of $10 per member, physical examinations would continue with the remaining members and complete results should be available within three weeks.

Members of the Neighborhood Youth Corps are from low income families. The federally-funded program places them in jobs with nonprofit organizations and government agencies.

NOT SURPRISED

Rumney said he was not surprised by the health report, pointing out that for many of the youths it was the first time they had been to a doctor for perhaps 15 years.

Among the defects were one case of each of the following: acute sinus inflammation, nasal allergy, muscular skeletal defect, gastro-intestinal disorder. Five cases of acute obesity were noted, four with acute dental decay, two with anemia, six had not been immunized or had no records of shots. Thirty-seven had no records of tuberculin tests or chest x-rays.

Two had emotional or physical conditions requiring periodic observation.

Rumney said that follow up work on those needing attention presents a problem, because funds have not been, and probably won't be, allocated by the government for that purpose.

"I'd like to at least get a small cushion type fund from the government to handle work requiring immediate attention which is not expensive," he said.

But he conceded that the possibility of getting government funds would be slim due to the extreme expense of such an operation.

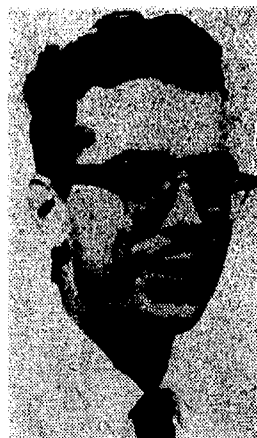

"Talking with one dentist, I was informed that the average amount of work that has to be done on a youth who has not had his teeth checked in 15 years amounts to approximately $300. I can see we'd never get that type of money," he said.

CREDIT EXTENDED

In the absence of follow-up funds, Rumney said he has made an effort in some instances to persuade doctors to extend credit, which they have done in at least one case.

Rumney said another problem was, "How good a physical can you get for $10?"

"I took a physical recently

ROBERT RUMNEY
Tells of Defects

and it cost me $120," he said. "So I went to a doctor I know and asked him if he would make a list of what could be included in a $10 examination and I think we've come up with the best exam possible under the circumstances."

NEW BUFFALO

Course Set
In Giving
Up Smoking

NEW BUFFALO — "The Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking" will be offered free of charge in New Buffalo during five consecutive evenings at the New Buffalo high school auditorium. The sessions will be held from April 20 to 24 at 7:30 each evening.

The Five Day Plan to Stop Smoking is a comprehensive assault on the habit involving evening group therapy, lectures, films, the buddy system and a personal control booklet to follow at work, according to G.A. Coffin, program director for the Five-Day plan.

Brought as a free public service to this community by the American Temperance society sponsored by the Chikaming and Berrien Springs Seventh - Day Churches, Coffin said the Five-Day plan is not a religious program, but discusses such topics as physical effect of smoking, exercises in strengthening willpower and how to weaken physical craving for tobacco.

Intermediate Board Asked
To Reconsider

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

The new Berrien County Intermediate District Education association has asked the Intermediate board to reconsider its April 10 decision not to rehire seven district speech correctionists for 1969-70.

The Intermediate board, acting on recommendation of a committee of six local school district superintendents, will not offer the seven contracts next year because of rising costs to the Intermediate district and larger member school districts.

The education association — only recently recognized as a bargaining agent — said in an open letter to Intermediate board members that the termination of contracts should be reconsidered to allow more time to study the problem.

The education association said its "rationale" for reconsideration is:

1. Some local school superintendents were neither consulted nor told of the move to end Intermediate speech correctionist contracts.

2. One or more of the six superintendents recommending termination to the Intermediate board may have expected this topic to be discussed with others outside the six-member committee.

3. Letting local school districts hire their own correctionists might result in inequitable service to different areas, though all would use Intermediate district funds.

4. Bigger, more aggressive school districts likely will continue correctionists at good salaries and thus draw a disproportionately larger share of intermediate district cost-share funds.

5. The Intermediate district is the logical level for administration district-wide speech correction work because of its central authority and information.

Illustrating its "inequitable service" rationale, the education association said Benton Harbor district provides one correctionist for every 6,500 pupils while St. Joseph offers one for every 1,800.

"Under any such arrangement," the association said, "St. Joseph will receive about three and one-half times as much county funds per pupil enrolled as Benton Harbor."

DELAY SOUGHT

Dr. Harold Bassham, an association member, called for a one-year delay in cutting the seven contracts "before a lot, and I mean a lot, of handicapped kids get hurt by too-hasty action."

"If the Intermediate district board would just delay implementing this action for a year, then the little people, the teachers and principals, the speech correctionists could be heard."

"Maybe even some of the taxpayers that we are always damning for not voting more millage have a right to know just what is being done."

He said the Intermediate board hired one speech correctionist about March 1, only a few weeks before deciding not to rehire the seven.

Community
Housing Eyed
At Holland

HOLLAND (AP) — A Holland organization has been formed to help create a community housing agency. Plans call for alleviating the shortage of adequate housing for low and middle income families, the aged and the poverty stricken.

The organization hopes to qualify for assistance from the various federal housing programs. The group's president is Roger Burnham, vice president is Clarence Klaasen.

According to Burnham the agency, nameless at this point, will include the entire Holland area. He said it will resemble somewhat a nonprofit organization which has developed an industrial complex on the city's southeast side. A meeting will be held April 29 at which legal incorporation papers will be reviewed.

CLEAN UP PROJECT: These Cub Scouts from the Gobles and Kendall area started out in two trucks recently to clean up trash along the highway. The trucks started east on County road 388 and were filled up with trash over the first five-mile stretch. Mrs. Glen Keely, Jr., and Mrs. Larry Barnhardt drove the trucks. Group included 22 Scouts, aged nine and ten.

MARIJUANA FILM TO COUNTY SCHOOLS: Mrs. Charles Payne (right) of St. Joseph, mental health chairman of the women's auxiliary of the Berrien County Medical society, presents a film illustrating dangers of marijuana to Berrien Intermediate School district instructional materials library. Film will be available for showing in schools of Berrien and Cass counties.
